BRYANT-GERDES WEDDING

In a lovely ceremony Saturday evening, October the eleventh, at the New Fountain Methodist church near Hondo, Miss Hattie Bertha Gerdes, daughter of Mr. and Mrs.
Louis Gerdes, became the bride of Albert William Bryant, son of Mr.
and Mrs. R. E. Bryant of San Antonio. The Rev. W. B. Wheeler, pastor of the church, officiated at the double ring ceremony.

Miss Minnie Wiemers sang "I Love You Truly", accompanied by Mrs. Wesley Wiemers on the piano and by Elroy Gerdes on the electric guitar. The bride entered with her father and was met at the altar by the bridegroom.

The bride wore a gown of pearl
white satin, fashioned with a sweetheart neckline and long pointed sleeves. A coronet of orange blossoms held the veil of silk bridal illusion. Her bouquet was of white carnations and lilies of the valley.
Her jewelry was an old gold bracelet which was worn by the bride's mother at her wedding in the same church twenty-five years ago, and an old gold necklace given to her by her aunt.

Mrs. Kenneth Slagle, sister of the bridegroom, was matron of honor.
She wore a frock of shell pink silk
and carried a bouquet of pink carnations.

Kenneth Slagle acted as best man and ushers were Herbert Gerdes and Wesley Wiemers.

The bride's mother was attired in a black alpaca weave rayon dress with blue, and her corsage was of pink carnations tied with gold ribbon. The bridegroom's mother was also in black silk crepe and her flowers were pink carnations tied with silver ribbon.

Following the ceremony, a reception for the bridal party, relatives and close friends was held in the home of the bride's parents. Those who assisted in serving were Mrs. W.
J. Hollingsworth, Mrs. A. F. Winkler, Mrs. E. A. Fuoss, Mrs. F. B.
Brucks, Mrs. Wesley Wiemers who is in charge of the bride's book.

After the reception, Mr. and Mrs.
Bryant left on a bridal trip to Carlsbad Caverns, New Mexico. On their return they will make their home at 429 Wharton Street, San Antonio, Texas.

Relatives and friends here for the wedding were: Mrs. F. Savoyia of Victoria, Mrs. E. Warden, Mr. and Mrs. F. Fisson and son, Mrs. Rosalie
Adler of Tucson, Arizona; Mrs. W.
J. Hollingsworth of Victoria; Mr.
and Mrs. Gus Noeker, Mr. and Mrs.
L. J. Winkler, Mr. and Mrs. Fred
Heberer and family, Miss Earline
Watson and Miss Mary Louise Hebere, all of San Antonio; Rev. and Mrs. E. W. Dechert and Mr. and Mrs. Aug. Gerdes and son, Wallace, of Yancey.

MURPHY H. D. CLUB

The Murphy H. D. Club met at the home of Mrs. John Krenmueller on Wednesday, October 15th. Six members were present.

Mrs. L. A. Wiemers gave an interesting report of the State H. D.
convention at Beaumont.

The annual election of officers was then held. Mrs. John Krenmueller was elected president; Mrs.
L. A. Wiemers, vice president; Mrs.
Walter Krenmueller, secretary-treasurer; Mrs. Ernest Brucks, council delegate and Mrs. Emil Riff, reporter.

Miss Hambleton gave an interesting discussion on the history of handicraft spreads. In this, the members were informed that Georgia is the bedspread state.

"In making tufted spreads try always to use the same color thread throughout the tufting as it is more economical and is easier to have correctness of color schemes," said Miss Hambleton. "White thread on solid white or on colored grounds and colored thread on white grounds
make attractive combinations."

The club decided to have a day of basket weaving directed by Mrs.
Ernest Brucks, and Mrs. Emil Riff at the home of Miss Hardeman in December.

After adjourning, refreshments consisting of ribbon sandwiches, devil's food cake, and coffee were served.

bishop of San Antonio, received the pallium of his archiepiscopal office, and the Most Rev. Laurence J.
FitzSimon was consecrated bishop of Amarillo. Officiating dignitary for both ceremonies was the Most Rev.

ington, apostolic delegate to the United States.

The services opened with a procession across Military Plaza from Guadalupe Center to the Cathedral
in which distinguished visiting clergymen, and members of the local clergy participated.

The two celebrants, Archbishop Lucey and Bishop FitzSimon, were vested and then the pallium was conferred on Archbishop Lucey by resentative of the Pope.

Simon followed the investiture of Archbishop Lucey.

In conclusion of Archbishop Lucey's sermon he said: "His Excellency, Bishop Laurence FitzSimon, does not go forth to his new assignment to carry his burden alone. His many friends among the clergy and religious of his archdiocese will not soon forget him."

Bishop FitzSimon was appointed bishop of Amarillo to succeed Archbishop Lucey on August 5. He had been called from his pastorate in Saguin by his old schoolmate, Archbishop Lucey, immediately after the latter's succession and made chancellor of the San Antonio diocese.

THE LOW DOWN FROM HICKORY GROVE

Everything you pick up, you run into something about A-1 or B-1, etc. Or if you twist your dial trying to get away from some person telling you how to become more alluring by rubbing something on versus getting out in the sun, you run into vitamins. Just at a time when the Alley Bands are becoming a trifle more scarce on the radio,
along comes vitamins.

I got nothing special against A-1 and B-1, etc., we are just over-doing it. Like in the Govt.
we been over-doing it there, too.
We got alphabetitis — a bad case. If the ABC in vitamins should happen to turn out like with the Govt., we are heading into poor sledding.

Fifty years ago they found out how to make white flour, so the millers made it white. Now, today, science is showing that white flour is good flour that was ruined by taking out the iron and vitamins of the original wheat kernel. Before messing around with A, B, and C in a can, your doctor is the guy to see.

Grandpa and grandma ate
dark bread, loaded with vitamins, iron, etc. No wonder they could fight Indians.

Yours with the low down,
JO SERRA.

THE ENEMY WITHIN

How many Americans could answer this question with any degree of accuracy — "How adequate are our local fire defenses?"

The chances are that not one person in a hundred could give anything resembling an informed answer. Yet that question is one which directly affects all our lives, all our property—and which, at this time,
has a very direct bearing on the national defense program.

Is the fire department up to snuff? Is there an abundance of water for fighting fire in all sections where it is needed? Is there a strictly enforced, modern building code and fire prevention ordinance? Are periodic inspections made of local property to ferret out and correct fire hazards? Do schools and other public buildings have sufficient and properly designed emergency exits?

You are entitled to the answers to such questions as these, and it is your duty to ask them. Today fire loss is running ahead of last year.
It is taking more lives. It is wasting more labor and energy. It is destroying materials which are important both to defense and normal activity.
It is destroying sources of taxation,
and thus increasing the burden that must be borne by all other taxpayers. It is breeding delay and waste of time.

Even in very small communities,
good fire protection is perfectly possible. The people can be educated. And many little towns have joined with others to create fire fighting organizations whose cost, when divided among the cooperating communities, is small. In short, wherever you live, wherever you are, there is no valid excuse for failure to do your part in preventing fire now.—
Industrial News Review.

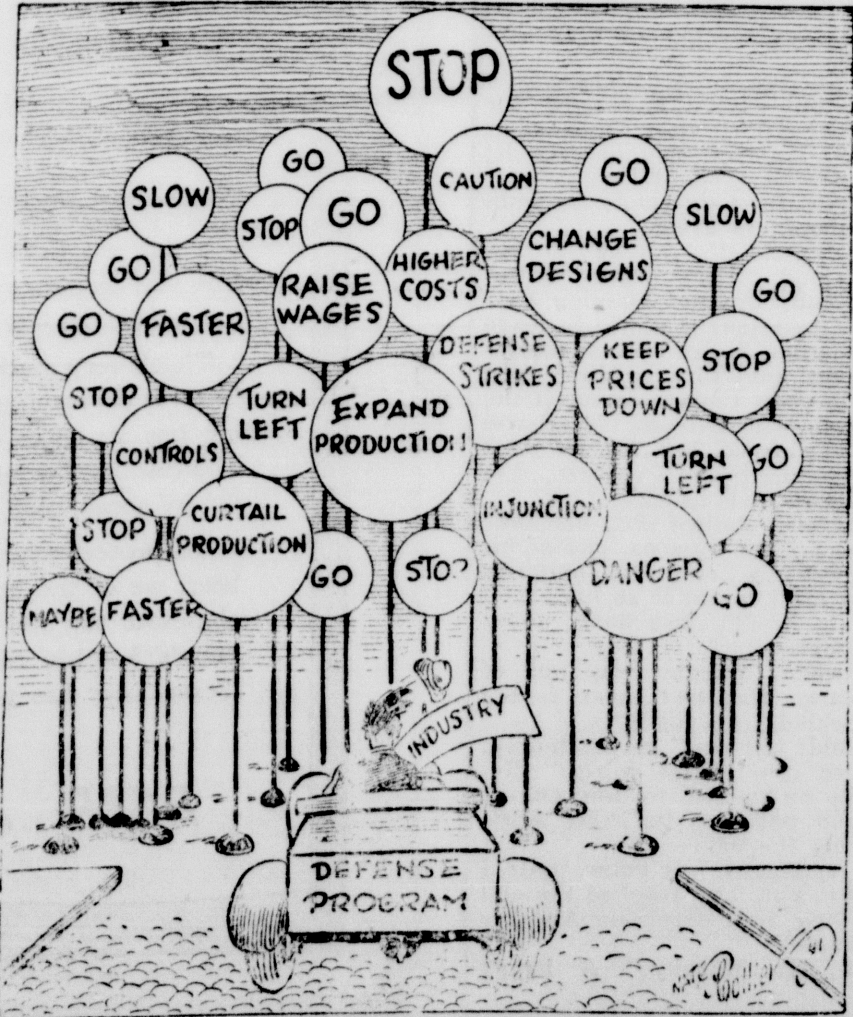

VOTE NO OR DON'T KICK

Next year the American people will pay the heaviest taxes in our history. They will pay willingly every dime that is needed for real defense. But they will resent being forced to pay now for government
"luxuries" and non-essentials.

Political spending for unnecessary activities is nothing short of a disgrace. For instance, costly WPA
"art projects" have again been given official approval. And that is done at a time when the cost of defense will be a great hardship on small incomes, no less than big, and when we are told business cannot continue as usual, and when all must "sacrifice."

It has been reliably estimated that the normal cost of government could be cut by a billion or more dollars a year without imperiling or eliminating any essential activity. But Congress won't move a single step in the direction of economy until the people demand it through their action at the polls. So don't kick at waste until you are ready to vote an emphatic "No" against individuals and agencies that countenance waste.—Industrial News Review.

DO YOU REMEMBER, MOTHER?

It doesn't seem so many years ago since I mortified you by appearing at the neighbor's dinner party in boots and overalls, but still it must be many years for I have two little ones of my own as old as I was then.

You know, mother, some of the happiest hours of my life have been spent in just remembering—remembering those years we spent together while reliving them with my own children. When I was little, I didn't understand the joys and heartaches of a parent. Today, I do.

There are millions of men and women throughout the land who love to remember. Some, like myself, enjoy the good fortune of having their mother still with them. Others must do their remembering alone. And yet, I believe all mothers live forever in the hearts of their children. There is never a time when I can not see your face clearly and remember the beauty and goodness it represents. When I see my children sitting on your lap, I yearn to turn back the hour glass and be your little boy again.

Do you remember the cat we used to have—the one I named "Tommy"? And that thrilling day when I announced with great excitement and to your amusement, that "Tommy" had a kitten?

Remember that frightened little fellow who felt very brave going to the operating room alone when he had his tonsils out? Now that I have experienced that vigil outside the operating room door with the mother of my own children, I can understand the tugging at your heart.

The sleepless nights you spent through measles, whooping cough and all those childhood diseases must have been exhausting and yet, mother, I remember you were tireless, always sweet, always thoughtful. We depended so much upon you. In fact, we didn't realize how much we did until the time you were seriously injured. Stark terror struck our home and everything seemed at a standstill. Thinking only of ourselves, we didn't realize that for years you had waited upon us and devoted your life to our wishes, never complaining or making us realize that there were times when you were tired to the point of exhaustion, and still you kept going because you were thinking of us. Then, when you did become ill, we were thrown into utter confusion.

I shall never forget the tears you tried to hide, the day we bought my first long trouser suit. You were brave, mother, but I knew your heart was breaking, because you suddenly realized that it wouldn't be long until your boy would be like every other man going out into the world, and you did not know where the stream of life would take him.

That was once, mother, you forgot to remember—to remember that all those years you had devoted to your boy were being planted deep in the heart of the man who was your son. He has always remembered, mother, and always will remember that you gave your life to his childhood and the least he could do would be to make you proud of his manhood.

These words I have written, mother, are echoed by the sons and daughters throughout the land—addressed to their mothers, just as this is addressed to you. And with the passing of the years, they will keep remembering, just as I shall keep remembering, the secrets of those happy years of childhood made possible by the sacrifices of a good and loving mother.

Texas is the greatest agricultural state in the world. Several times the value of farm crops has passed the billion dollar mark. It is sufficient unto itself. Of the 254 counties in Texas, only one does not produce agricultural products commercially. It is natural that the State Fair of Texas hold each year the greatest farm show in the world. Since 1938 the State Fair of Texas has annually held the greatest display of farm products ever housed under a single roof. Planning its greatest exposition, it is also in line that the 1941 State Fair has planned even a greater agricultural display. Ninety percent of all Texas is represented each year in this show, and efforts are being made to make this 100 percent. A budget of $17,500 is set up for "the world's greatest farm show," in 1941.

The first carload of sliced onions ever shipped in the United States left Floresville, (Wilson county), bound for Wisconsin recently, according to the manager of a local packing company. A huge vat containing 2,100 bushels of green onions was used in the processing of this first shipment. Exactly 11 tons of salt were used. The car contained 130 barrels of the sliced onions put down in brine.

THE END OF THE LONG TRAIL

By Star Starr

Engineer, Jim Murphy, was tall, raw-boned, with steel-blue eyes that could still glow with inward fires. His past was not so brisk nor so springy as it had been on that memorable day, forty years ago, when he had cleaned and oiled his first engine, but his seventy-year old heart beat with a love as strong for his work and for his engine as it had in the long ago.

His massive head was crowned with thick white hair which fell from beneath an old cap set well back from a perspiring forehead. Now and then he nodded as he worked and talked. For, to Jim Murphy, his engine was not a machine, but a living breathing, understanding personality, and as such he addressed it now.

"We've been together a long time, old pal, and you've never done me a mean or dirty trick, never failed to give me honest service. And, pal, you are good for a long time yet, but my work days are almost over. Any day now, I'll get the summons. I'll miss you, pal, my beauty; and I'll miss the thrill of taking you over the divide—up, up and up we've climbed to where the air is sweet and pure as heaven. Talk about thrills, who knows more about thrills than we do. Haven't we climbed mountains, thundered over chasms, across the desert in heat and cold? And haven't we fought snowdrifts mountains high? And didn't we come out of it all with the feel of victory tingling in our veins? Ah, pal, that's a thrill worth working for! But, any day now, the call will come for me—"

"Good morning, Mr. Murphy! Putting her in trim? Fine engine—old 39."

"There ain't a better one on the road, and she's good for a long time yet."

"Mr. Murphy, er—I was goin' to say, Mr. O'Donnell wants to see you."

Yes, yes; thanks, Tom, I been expecting a call, and Murphy controlled his agitation. But as he made his way to the superintendent's office, the weight of his suffering became almost more than he could bear.

When the superintendent looked up and saw the sagging shoulders, usually as straight as a much younger man's, the haggard eyes, dim with pain more poignant than physical suffering, his own heart was touched, for superintendent O'Donnell had known Murphy all the years of his service. During the heat of summer and cold of winter, Murphy was always ready when called to go on a run.

And when he took a few days off, as he often did in order to give some extra man a chance, he never chose the worst weather as so many others did.

"You've been a good man, Murphy," the superintendent said, then paused, looking at Murphy who stood silent, his jaws set and, although he would never have acknowledged it, the tears forced back by a strong will. "Yes, Murphy, you've been faithful in service, and—"

"Get it over with, Mr. O'Donnell, say it. I'm too old! Don't I know it? Too old! But can any one handle my old engine better'n I can?" Murphy demanded, a flash of fire in his eyes.

"No, Murphy, no one can surpass, and I doubt if any one can equal you even now. But there must be a time limit, you know. But you'll be provided for, you know that, too. You'll get your pension."

"Pension! pension! What's a pension but dependence, charity!" Murphy groaned aloud not knowing that he did so.

"No, Murphy, reward! There's no charity about it! It's a reward for faithful, honest service. Think of it that way, Murphy. You deserve it; your family deserves it."

Murphy's face softened; he smiled; his shoulders lifted.

"Mr. O'Donnell, you've always been a friend to the boys. I'm not blaming you; I'm not blaming anybody. It's just that it's hard to leave my old engine. We've been comrades a long time; gone through many hard climbs together. I'm wondering if the young man who gets my place will take good care of her. Forget all I said about charity. Of course, I'm glad to have the pension."

As Murphy walked out, his head up, his shoulders squared, one of his fellow workers said to another: "Murphy ain't takin' it as hard as I thought he would, he's daffy about his old engine."

But when Murphy was out of sight, tears, that had been forced back, trickled from his eyes.

"Too old! too old!" he murmured. "No more use in this world!" Mechanically he turned to the engine and began polishing its shiny sides, murmuring the while:

"The summons has come, pal; I must leave you. I've reached the end of our long trail together. Another must take—"

"Hello, Mr. Murphy!" A happy

MY HERITAGE

By some strange fate this puny atom, I, The queerest creature God has ever wrought, Arrived upon the earth—with one loud cry—

And never gave my heritage a thought: I could have been a wasp... a worm... a hare—

My ego whispers bird... and tries to make A thing of beauty... winging through the air—

If God had willed it... I would be a snake! Some greater man than I was here before

I came into this world... to criticize. He harvested some grain... but left much more

For me... than I can ever realize. I hope The End is equal to... The Plan...

That God is glad... He made of me... a man. —CLYDE J. HUNNICUTT in April KALEIDOGRAPH.

young voice greeted the old man. "I've come to tell you I'm takin' out my first engine, alone, tomorrow. I wanted you to know because I owe you more than anyone else. I haven't forgot what you taught me when I was your fireman and you let me run the engine. And I haven't forgot how you used to shovel coal for me on hard climbs, sayin' that my back was young an' tender an' yours was old an' tough. I'll never forget that. Mr. Murphy, for although I wouldn't say so, sometimes my back felt like it was comin' in two. When I went with the others, and felt I'd drop, they only said: "Stick to it, Bill, that's the way I made my start."

"And, say, Mr. Murphy, I'm takin' your engine—" The happy voice stopped, for sudden anger had leaped into the old eyes, but it was quickly replaced by a smile, and a trembling voice said softly, as Murphy laid a hand on the engine:

"Bill Donovan takin' out my old pal. It was breakin' my heart to give you up to another, but to Bill—playmate of my Charley who is runnin' engines in heaven, if there are any there—to Bill now, I'm glad to entrust you, my old pal!" and turning back to the boy: "Be good to her, Bill, and she'll reward you with faithful service."

And, as Murphy went his way, he murmured to himself:

"Service faithfully done makes growing old bearable. Faithful in service," he repeated, "yes, I've been faithful in service, but I've reached the end of the long trail."

As he neared home, Murphy looked up and saw coming toward him a curly-headed boy of three, who clapped his hands and cried joyously:

"Bapa! Bapa!" and ran as fast as his little legs could carry him to his grandfather. Murphy gathered the child in his arms, and as he wiped away the moisture that persisted in clouding his eyes, he murmured:

"The end of one trail; the beginning of another! And this boy to follow in his granddaddy's steps. Yes, faithful service insures happiness when the shadows lengthen and we come to the end of the long trail."

THERE GOES A TIRE!

...but why junk the car?

Any car can have a blowout in a tire. But you wouldn't junk the car. You'd just fix the tire—or replace it.

That's very much like a situation that exists in the retailing of beer. Beer retailing has its "flat tires," too—retailers who disobey the law or who permit unsavory conditions.

To protect your right to drink good beer, we of the beer industry want to eliminate the few "flat tire" retailers. Here's another reason: Right here in Texas, beer has provided employment for 31,165 persons, supports an annual payroll of $22,076,182 and paid $2,273,968.64 in state taxes last year.

The state, too, has an important stake in the beer industry's purchases—for material, equipment and services—from more than 100 other industries.

Those benefits are worth preserving. You can help us preserve them by patronizing only the reputable and legal places where beer is sold and by reporting any law violations you may observe to the duly constituted authorities.

SPEEDING UP

Speeding up work to get 1942 AAA allotments to farmers by November 1 is the gigantic task facing county offices now. V. P. King, chairman of the Medina county AAA committee, announced this week.

Allotments are being issued about six months before the usual time since all decks must be cleared for the house-to-house canvass in the national defense program, the AAA official said. The farm plan sheet method, through which farmers plant crops for maximum payments under the AAA program, will be used by committeemen in the feed and food campaign.

Since greater production of milk, eggs, and other foodstuffs, are being asked of Texas farmers, county goals will be announced in a few weeks, King said. Secretary of Agriculture Claude R. Wickard outlined details of the defense program to Southern agricultural workers in Memphis, Tenn., Sept. 29 and 30.

Flexibility of the AAA program to curtail production of surplus commodities and at the same time increase production of commodities essential to defense needs is evidenced in the 1942 AAA program which has been designed to meet a national emergency, King said.

Cotton, wheat, rice and peanut allotments will be established as in former years but no general allotments will be made because of the increased emphasis on feed and food. Allotments will also be established for commercial Irish potatoes.

When details of the 1942 program are received, educational meetings will be held in the various communities, the chairman said.

Something to Think About

A stranger was standing on the platform of a small railway station when the Northern express flashed past. Into the whirl of dust raised by the train leaped the station-master's dog, and tore madly up the track in pursuit.

"Does your dog often do that?" asked the stranger of the station-master.

"Yes, sir. Every time the express passes, the dog is after it like a hare."

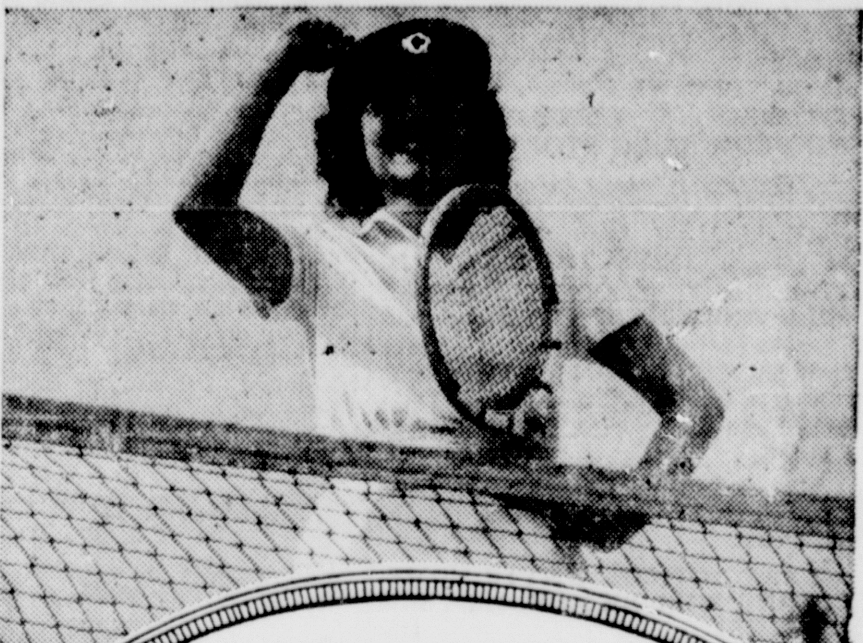

"That's queer," commented the stranger. "Why does he do it?"

"I don't know," replied the dog's owner, scratching his head thoughtfully. "What worries me is what he's going to do with it when he gets it!"—Tit-Bits.

Electrical "Hired Hands" Aid Farm Production for Defense

Yard lights and a portable motor pay big dividends in many ways.

By IRA MILLER Farm Electrification Bureau

A VISIT to any group of electrified farms—whether they have enjoyed high-line service for a long or a short time—reveals that surprisingly few make as extensive use of this valuable "farm hand" outside the home as they do in it.

Of course, it is only natural that the first use of electricity should be for household comforts and conveniences. But the profit-making and labor-saving applications of electricity in the business of farming are all too often entirely neglected or only partly exploited. It costs only a few dollars to wire and light your poultry house. At comparatively small additional expense, you can install ultra-violet lamps and water warmers. The complete installation will not only maintain egg production during the fall and winter months (when prices are highest) but also will provide the necessary quantities of Vitamin D (an essential to strong, healthy birds and to a higher percentage of fertile and hatchable eggs).

For $15 or $20, probably the lower figure, you can install a yard light. This includes all material and an electrician's services but not a pole. If one is necessary, it will cost about $10 if put in by the power company or only your labor if you cut and set it yourself. Three lighting units—one each at the house, barn and garage—are essential for the proper lighting of the average farmyard. Such an installation will do much to lessen, if it does not entirely eliminate, two of the principal hazards of farming—accidents and thefts at night.

Motors of various sizes can save time, labor and money on many farm jobs. Small motors—less than one horsepower—cost only a few cents an hour to operate and eliminate the drudgery of milking a small dairy herd, separating cream, churning butter and shelling corn. In the workshop, they run the grinder, drill, forge and many other tools commonly operated by hand.

Larger motors (up to 7½ horsepower), portable wherever possible, have dozens of uses and will do the work of at least two farm hands at a cost that is measured in cents instead of dollars. They are used to drive the feed grinder and mixer, ensilage cutter, hay hoist and baler, pipe-line milking machine, threshing machine, wood saw, fruit and vegetable grader, grain cleaner and elevator, and practically all other stationary machines.

The operating cost of any of the electric "farm hands" previously mentioned is but a few cents per day, while the actual cash savings and profits that result will pay for the initial wiring and equipment in a few months. Even were there no direct savings or profits, the added safety, convenience and comfort will be worth much more than the cost.

Read Our ads And profit By the savings Therein offered you; The frugal buyer earns by saving And thus profits by reading the ads.

Little Miss Doris Lindeburg pre- ceded the honoree to her chair while Miss Mildred Lindeburg played the march on the organ.

The following toast was read by Miss Lucille Boehle:

If all our friends that came here to- day

Were asked just what they would like to say,

I'm sure their wishes would fill this space,

Expression of joy is in every face.

We honor one who has golden hair, And ere long, will be a bride most fair,

With Clyde, her choice, by her side,

Oh, happy groom, oh, lovely bride.

Soon you come from altar, a wedded pair,

When you solemnly vow to ever share

Each other's pleasures, each other's woes,

It matters not which way the tide goes.

May love you have spoken for each other,

Grow stronger each day, don't ever bother,

For true love, always will stand the test,

And unto God leave all the rest.

Eighty-six guests registered in the beautiful hand-painted bride's book presided over by Miss Lillian Linde- burg.—Contributed.

FIRE BOYS ANSWER ALARM

The explosion of a gasoline iron at the home of a Mexican family just east of the Bob Cat Grill, last Sat- urday afternoon resulted in a fire alarm and a quick response by the Hondo Volunteer Fire department. However, the blaze was quickly ex- tinguished by members of the family while the alarm was being sounded and the most serious result was pain- ful burns received by the young woman using the iron, we were in- formed.

Washington Snapshots

by JAMES PRESTON

Preparations are quietly advancing in Washington for a broad economic attack on the Axis powers. The Economic Defense Board—which was created in June—will shortly begin to open its economic "blitz".

The weapons for this attack were forged when the President set up this Board of the Vice President and seven Cabinet members to insure full use of the enormous economic power of this Government in the effort to help Great Britain in her job of defeating the Axis. Top officials of the Board will tell you they see it as having two main objectives: first, to conserve for the United States and its friends large stocks of vital materials; second, to prevent their flow to unfriendly nations.

This Economic Defense Board has a collection of not-to-be-sneered-at weapons in its arsenal—weapons of considerable striking power against the Axis nations, already showing signs of shortages of important materials, and of financial strain.

Financial pressure is one of these weapons. Washington hopes to cripple the Axis wherever possible through financial manipulations, such as the step already taken of freezing bank accounts of unfriendly powers, coupled with increased financial assistance to friendly or neutral nations, and other means of using money to obtain cooperation, materials or good will at the expense of the Axis.

Through the export licensing control, major economic weapon No. 2, the government can control shipments of materials abroad, prohibiting sales to neutral countries when government information is such as to indicate the materials may ultimately end up in one of the Axis nations.

Control of imports is another weapon in the economic warfare category. From Latin America and other foreign countries, the Government can insure our industries of supplies of native materials and make certain these strategic materials are not sold to the Axis powers first. For example, an agreement recently negotiated with Mexico and Brazil arranges for these countries to sell all their exportable surplus of certain war materials to this country exclusively.

The Economic Defense Board, in addition, is working out a system of priorities for the Latin American republics. This would not only keep trade flowing between the two Americas but would aid in strengthening the defenses of the South American countries as well.

And control of shipping allows this government to make effective defense use of what is rapidly becoming the greatest merchant fleet in world history. Allocations of ships and new bottoms as they become available will play a not unimportant part in obtaining defense cooperation from foreign nations.

—WSS—
From all over the country, support is being received by Senator O'Daniel of Texas for his proposed "right to work" amendment to the Constitution. Now that Congress is getting back to work this week, the chances are that this amendment will get more than cursory attention from the Senate Judiciary Committee.

The amendment reads quite simply: "No person shall be denied employment because of membership or affiliation with or resignation from a labor union, or because of refusal to join or affiliate with a labor union; nor shall any corporation or individual or association of any kind enter into any contract, written or oral, to exclude from employment members of a labor union or persons who refuse to join a labor union, or because of resignation from a labor union; nor shall any person against his will be compelled to pay dues to any labor organization as a prerequisite to or condition of employment."

Senator O'Daniel sees this amendment—it would be the first Constitutional amendment since the repeal of Prohibition if passed and ratified by the States—as particularly necessary in these critical times, but as important in normal times as well. "It is absolutely foolish," he says, "to talk about maintaining democracy in America if we do not maintain in America the right to work."

Democracy ends, as the Senator sees it, when citizens of a country are deprived of the right to work unless they pay tribute to some organization or agency. This is dictatorship of organized minorities, who are under the control of none except their unrestrained leaders.

INFORMATION FOR SELECTEES

A modified plan for induction of trainees under the jurisdiction of the Texas Selective Service System will be placed into immediate effect with the Army's most recent call for 1375 men. It was announced today by General J. Watt Page, State Selective Service Director.

The new system has the approval of the War Department. General Page said, and will reduce almost entirely the uncertainty with which registrants have heretofore been faced during the period between the local board examination and the date set for induction. A major advantage also in the new plan is that registrants will be given ample opportunity to make final arrangements in their financial and other personal affairs.

"In the beginning," General Page pointed out, "men called for induction did not know until they reported for induction whether or not they would pass their Army physical examination. This naturally worked a hardship on many registrants—some of them had given up their jobs only to be rejected at the induction station. Now, registrants will know well in advance whether they will be inducted and are in a position to make their plans accordingly."

General Page explained that the modified plan calls for the usual preliminary local board examination within thirty to sixty days prior to date of call for induction. Within thirty days prior to call selectees will be sent at government expense to the Army Examining Board in their district, where a complete examination, including physical, citizenship, morals, and literacy will be given. (Army examining stations in Texas are located at Houston, Dallas, Ft. Sam Houston near San Antonio, Ft. Bliss near El Paso, and Lubbock.)

After examination the local board concerned will be notified of the result of the examination and the selectee will be returned to his home at government expense. Wherever possible, registrants will be permitted to return to their home the same day they are examined by Army physicians.

General Page pointed out that under the new system when the Army requisitions the State Selective Service Headquarters for a certain number of men to be delivered on given dates, the 351 local boards throughout the State will be called upon to furnish their quota of selectees who have already been accepted by the Army Examining Boards, and these selectees will be sent direct to the designated reception centers in the Eighth Corps Area for immediate induction.

Induction will normally follow within twenty to thirty days after the Army physical examination, and selectees will receive at least ten days notice prior to call for induction.

"For example," General Page said, "the Army has just requisitioned the Texas Selective Service System for 1183 white selectees and 192 colored selectees. State Headquarters has today issued a call on Texas' local boards for the actual number each will send to Army Examining stations during the period October 27 through October 30. However, those men who are accepted will not be inducted before December—the white selectees on December 1 and the colored selectees on December 6."

The mother and daughter were very busy with the plans for the wedding when the bridegroom-to-be called. He watched the preparations rather impatiently a while, until his future wife noticed his look of annoyance.

"Darling, we have such a lot to do," she soothed, "and if we want to make our wedding a big success we mustn't forget the most insignificant detail!"

"Oh, don't worry about that," murmured the young man, "I'll be there all right."—Exchange.

NAVY DAY, 1941

In 1922, the Navy League of the United States inaugurated Navy Day and has sponsored its observance each year. October 27th was the date selected because it is the birth date of Theodore Roosevelt, who first achieved a national reputation by writing a Naval History of the War of 1812. Later as Assistant Secretary of the Navy and finally as President of the United States, he devoted much of his time and energy in an effort to impress upon the American people the necessity for an adequate Navy, and through his leadership endeavored to realize that ideal. October is also the month in which the American Navy was founded in 1775.

The purpose in observing Navy Day is not only to pay tribute to our sea heroes and to recall the part the Navy has played in making and keeping us a nation, but it serves also as a valuable means of fostering a better understanding of the Navy and its work. As a result of the splendid cooperation of the radio broadcasting companies, the press, and the motion picture industry, as well as patriotic and civic organizations, Navy Day takes on added significance each year. However, the present international situation, along with the measures which are being taken to cope with it, make Navy Day, 1941, an occasion on which more thought will be given to the Naval service by the American people than ever before. It will find our country in a state of national emergency for the first time since its original observance. It finds the states being called upon to make individual as well as collective efforts to assist in completing a Two-Ocean Navy at the earliest possible moment.

The record of this area in furnishing personnel for the expanding Navy is one of which we may be proud. During the past two months, 140 patriotic citizens who live in all sections of this Navy Recruiting District have volunteered to act as Assistant Navy Recruiters. As a result of such cooperation on the part of private citizens, and the publicity furnished by newspaper editors voluntarily, without any thought of pay, this Recruiting District stood 5th for the month of August and 4th for the fiscal year in supplying men for the Navy, according to the latest figures released by the Navy Department. Therefore, as we pay tribute to the Navy this Navy Day, we may be sure that the Navy also salutes us for the part we are playing in the National Defense Program.

FSA PLANS FOR FOOD FOR NATIONAL DEFENSE

At a district meeting in San Antonio last Thursday for supervisory personnel of Farm Security Administration, "Food for Freedom" was discussed. Plans were made for FSA families to follow in producing additional food for national defense.

FSA over the entire State is working for an increase of 10% milk production 25% poultry and eggs, 17% pork, 18% beef, and a noticeable increase in other farm products. Farmers are encouraged to produce more through better care and feeding of stock on hand rather than invest additional money in foundation stock. Marketing products to save spoilage will also increase food production. The Texas Dairy Products Association, Inc. reports that approximately $168,750 worth of milk was lost by Texas farmers last year because the milk was unfit for use when it reached the market.

Production of home gardens, which is a requirement of FSA, is being stressed more this year. The purpose is to produce better varieties and to conserve a greater amount of

DEFENSE BOND QUIZ

Q. Just what is inflation and how can it be minimized?
A. Inflation is a decrease in the buying power of the dollar caused by a rising cost of living. This, in turn, is brought about by a heavy public demand, resulting from a rapid increase in the national income, for things which cannot be produced in large enough quantities. Every citizen can help minimize inflation by buying Defense Bonds and Stamps.

Q. How can I get cash for my Defense Savings Stamps if I should need to redeem them?
A. Go to any post office.

Note.—To buy Defense Bonds and Stamps, go to the nearest post office, bank, or savings and loan association; or write to the Treasurer of the United States, Washington, D. C. Also Stamps now are on sale at most retail stores.

The Owls then kicked off to San Felipe's 5-yd. line, and the Mustangs brought the ball back to the 28-yd. line. After making a first down on a fake punt play, the Mustangs failed to gain and were forced to punt to the Owls' 35-yd. line. Ney got loose on the following play for 21 yards. Finger for 2 yards around end, and time was called for San Felipe. Hollmig was then good for one yard and then he completed a pass to Britsch for 16 yards and a first down. Finger made 3 yards and the Owls called time out. The Owls then failed to complete two passes and Hollmig was dropped back to the 25-yd. line. The ball went over to San Felipe on downs. End of first quarter. Score: Hondo 6, San Felipe 0.

Second Quarter

On the first play in the second quarter, San Felipe completed a pass for 30 yards and a first down. Time out for Hondo. After making another first down San Felipe was forced to punt to the Owls' 10-yd. line. Hollmig then failed to gain. He then punted out of danger for the Owls to their own 45-yd. line, where the Mustangs took over and ran the ball down to the Owls 15-yd. line, but then they received a 5-yd. penalty and the ball went over to the Owls on downs. On the first play Dawson made 7 yards around end. Hollmig then smashed through for a first down. A 15-yd. penalty was assessed against the Owls for holding. On the next two plays Dawson and Finger netted 23 yards together. Then Hollmig failed to gain and the Owls received another 5-yd. penalty. The Owls then kicked off to San Felipe's 35-yd. line and after no gain in three downs, the Mustangs punted to the Owls' 27-yd. line. Hollmig then made 6 yards while Ney added 3 more yards. As Hollmig lost a yard, the pistol sounded ending the first half. Score: Hondo 13; San Felipe 0.

Third Quarter
